Please note our contact page[1].

PSI wants its website to be user-friendly. We welcome your feedback. Please send your suggestions either to the webmaster@psi.ch or to the author or creator named at the bottom of the relevant page.

PSIWeb content is subject to change without warning.

PSI will investigate any evidence of potential violations of laws, instructions, directives or third-party rights caused by content on PSI pages, and will instigate measures as necessary.

References and links

Any references to products, services or organisations outside PSI and any links to the websites of other parties lie beyond the scope of PSI’s responsibility. PSI does not have any influence on the form or content of offers or web sites made available by third parties, and rejects any responsibility for them. Any reliance on references and any access or use of links to third-party websites is entirely at the risk of the user.

Copyright

Copyright and other such rights to all the texts, photographs and images or other data and files on PSI pages in PSIWeb belong exclusively to PSI or to the specifically-named owners of such rights. Unless explicitly indicated otherwise, such elements may only be used for private purposes. Any reproduction or other use of such elements for alternative (particularly commercial) purposes is only permitted with the written permission in advance of the relevant owner of the right. Please contact the Communications Department (info@psi.ch) for information about the use of texts, photographs and images, or other data or files.

Data protection

No personal information is stored when PSI pages are accessed. The PSI web server only collects non-personal information relating to the use of PSIWeb. This information is only analysed for statistical purposes, so that we can improve our provision. PSI takes strict care to ensure that this type of information does not come into contact with personal data. Any contact details or other personal information voluntarily entered by you into PSI web pages will only be used within the parameters of the specific purpose for which they have been entered. You can demand that such personal information is deleted at any time. PSI expressly declares that this information will not be linked to non-personal usage data or passed on to any third parties, and uses all the means at its disposal in its endeavours to protect the compiled information against any misuse or access by third parties.
Liability

PSI makes every endeavour to keep the content on the PSI pages in PSIWeb correct and up-to-date at all times. However, PSI does not guarantee or accept any liability for the topicality, the correctness, the precision and reliability, or the completeness of the content and information on the PSI web pages. This exclusion of liability relates to any claims of a tangible or intangible nature caused by access to or use of PSIWeb, any misuse of links and any technical malfunctions.

General information

The web pages at www.psi.ch ("PSIWeb") contain official pages produced by the PSI Directorate.

PSIWeb also includes web pages independently produced and updated by individual PSI research units and departments and their staff. The statements made by one or more authors/creators of such pages are not binding, and do not necessarily represent the views of PSI.
