Publishing in Materials Science – Editor, Reviewer & Author Responsibilities

Guest Speaker Anna Troeger

Editor for Advanced Energy Materials, Small, Advanced Materials Interfaces, Solar RRL, and Global Challenges.

John Wiley & Sons, Inc., publishing company

Abstract:

Materials science is a multidisciplinary research field with many different kinds of scientists and engineers active in it. The literature landscape is consequently populated by a range of journals which differ greatly in purpose, scope, quality, and readership. After an introduction to Wiley's publishing activities in the area of materials science, the presentation focuses on editorial workflows and the different roles that are involved (authors, editors and reviewers).
